- 12-10-14 A.L. Davis receives letter from A.H. Barth, dated December 1. In part Mr. Barth says "It took me 20 days to make the trip from Arvada to Long Beach. We lost over a week on account of rain and snow and several days at sight seeing. I am pleased to say that we got thru without any serious accident or trouble. The rocks simply cut your tires to pieces. I could not give the anti-puncture filler a fair test, for I had only two punctures, and they were so large that I had to have the tubes vulcanized. Lava, rock and quartz cut my tires so that the tubes blew out and I lost a good part of the mixture. I took two extra tires with me and had to get a new one at Flagstaff. As far as the car itself is concerned, I don't believe I had any more trouble than I would have had at home in a 1,700 mile drive, up hill and down, thru streams, mud and sand, with little of what you could call good roads, and the rest of the way, wagon trails."
- 12-10-14 A remarkable demonstration of human instinct in animals was given by Postmaster Newtons Shetland pony last Friday. Mrs. Newton was attracted by a noise that sent the chills chasing up and down her spinal column. Knowing that it must be the pony, she thought that he might be tangled in a barbed wire fence. Observing him from the window, she saw him standing pawing the air and stamping his feet in a very peculiar manner. She ran out to find the coal house was on fire and flames reaching for other buildings which would have eventually reached the house. Fortunately a few buckets of water extinguished the flames. Mr. Newton says that the little black beauty has proven himself worth his weight in gold. The pony is a familiar sight on the streets of Arvada while being driven or ridden by his mistress Dorothy Newton.

- 12-31-14 EDITORIAL The first Ford car was gotten out in a blacksmith shop and Henry Ford was looked upon as a sort of a "cheap mechanic". A little town over in Michigan was asked to donate $2,000 in order that the first Ford factory might go into operation. The people of the town were afraid that it would be a failure because there was no money behind the scheme. They made no effort ~~to~~ to raise the money and today the Ford factory occupies a large portion of the Detroit manufacturing district and employs thousands of men. The people of Arvada have an opportunity knocking at their door. Knowing the history of all manufacturing industries in the automobile line and the big demand for anything that pertains to the Automobile fad,--especially tires. The proposition should be investigated thoroly, before letting it go by.
- 12-31-14 "The Uncle Samuel is Spending His Money" by Hon. E.A.Keating
During fiscal year, ending June 30th, Uncle Sam expended in the support of the various departments of this government $1,025,698,590, representing an annual tax of $10 on every man, woman and child. The average American family numbers five persons which contributes $50 per year for the maintenance of federal power. The real era of wastfull expenditure in this country was ushered in by the Spanish American war, when a wave of imperialistic hysteria swept over the country. The United States has become a "World Power", we are told by 22-caliber statesman and a majority of the voters has fallen for the new doctrine. Imperialism is the most costly game ever played by nations and it costs republics ten times as much as it does monarchies. Imperialism is having colonies a big army and a smashing big navy. So we acquired the Phillippines and a string of other islands and procede to spend money like the proverbial drunken sailor. When some fellow protested, he was silenced by the solemn declaration the the United States must realize its destiny!
