A MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT - Jack Raven

The Arvada Historical Society is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year. Members of the Society have been very active since its founding in 1972. They have accomplished many projects and put together lots of history about our city to share with others.

I need to send out many thank you notes, but instead I'll just say Thank You to all the Board members and everyone else who helped make my year as President a great success. And a special thank you goes to the Arvada High School class of 1943 for its donation to the Society in memory of Marjorie Vanderhoof.

Also, a correction from the last newsletter: the beautiful hand-carved wooden stage coach and wagon created by Fred Fiore were contributed by his wife Anna and daughters Rose Sherman, Lucille Clapp and Virginia Dougherty. They are on display at the Arvada Mill.

The year has gone by so fast, and we have many continuing projects as well as several completed ones. The Arvada Center expansion project is moving right along, and in just a few months we will be resettling the Haines log cabin and our other collections in the Museum area.

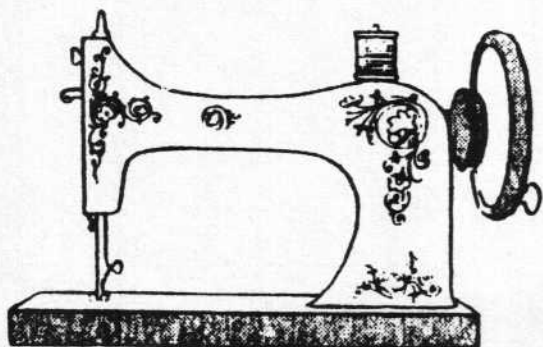

We will start our new year with our first Board meeting at 7:00 p.m. (note time change) on Tuesday, Sept. 22, at the Standley Lake Library, 8485 Kipling St. As always, all members and friends are invited to join us to see the archives on Arvada history which the Library staff has set up with the Society's material.

I am looking forward to seeing you all at the Annual Breakfast Saturday, Aug. 22, and the Old Timers Picnic, Sunday, Aug. 23. Come and see your old friends and meet some new ones!

COLLECTORS ITEMS AVAILABLE

There are a few copies left of some of the books published by the Arvada Historical Society, including "Arvada Just Between You and Me, 1904-1941"; "Arvada Flour Mill" and "Pioneer Receipt".

Also there are beautiful plates with five different scenes of Olde Arvada available. All of these items will be on sale at the Annual Breakfast and the Old Timers Picnic.

OLD CORNERSTONE RECOVERED

The Administration and Education building at the State Home and Training School was built in 1910, the first of many buildings situated on 300 acres of State property located at Kipling St. and Ridge Road. There was a fire in the A&E building a few years ago, but it was not demolished until late June, 1992. The Arvada Historical Society was notified about the contents of the box in the cornerstone. Several pictures, newspapers, the Act of Appropriations and other items are listed below:

Pictures: Charles D. Griffith, member, Board of Control, 1910; John F. Shafroth, Governor of Colorado, 1902-1910; Thomas F. Welsh, architect, State Home and Training School; Thomas F. Daley, president and board member; Robert W. Speer, Denver Mayor; General W. H. Dickson, who drew the bill establishing the facility; Senator John Irby, who introduced the bill to the State Senate; B. Frank Lowell, secretary of the Board of Control; Mrs. Stanley M. Caspar, president of the State Board and Corrections (office in the State Capitol Bldg.); Mrs. Ella Parrish Williams, vice president of the State Board of Charities and Corrections (through her efforts this home was established); and Aaron M. Gove, architect.

Newspapers: Rocky Mountain News, November 12, 1910; The Denver Republican, November 23, 1910; The Denver Post, November 20, 1910, article "Plans of the Home", pg. 1, sec. 10; The Denver Express, November 19, 1910 article "Lay Cornerstone" and picture of plans for State Home and Training School.

Other Items: An uncirculated quarter, dated 1910; copy of Biennials of State Board of Charities and Correction; cut of State Home and Training School for Mental Defectives, located at Lewis Station, Colorado, Gove and Welch, architects; book dated 1907-1908 "Ninth Annual Report, State Board Charities and Correction".

Notes from "The Act of Appropriation": management of the State Home and Training School shall be under three commissioners appointed by the Governor, not more than two commissioners of the same political party, one for two years, one for four years, one for six years; thereafter, each commissioner appointed for six years and shall serve without compensation. The superintendent shall be appointed by the Governor as a person with not less than two years experience in a similar institution and competent to direct the medical hygiene, educational and industrial interests of The State Home and Training School. The superintendent shall reside at the home and receive a salary of $3,000.00 per annum, and shall hire a maintenance assistant at $1,800.00 per year.

The marble cornerstone was removed and is inscribed as follows: "A.D. 1910. State Home and Training School for Mental Defectives, founded by the State of Colorado, through the efforts of Ella Parrish Williams of the State Board of Corrections." It has not been determined where the future home of these items will be located. The Arvada Historical Society is grateful to Anna Horner, staff assistant, for the opportunity to investigate the contents of the cornerstone box and to make a copy of these items.

ARVADA'S OLDEST NATIVE - by Marcetta Lutz

Louise Graf Brinkerhuff LeHew, 94, was born March 28, 1898 at the Graf home located on W. 55th Ave (Valley Ave). This house burned in 1915 and a brick home, which still stands, was built in its place. Her parents Bernard Graf and Katherine Meier, who had learned the cheese operation in the old country, established a cheese factory in Arvada.

Louise and Elizabeth (Lea) were identical twins, the youngest of the ten Graf children. During their teenage years they would go with each other's boy friends, who never realized the difference. They had the same tastes in clothing, dreamt the same dreams and had the same aches and pains. It was a traumatic day for Louise when her twin sister died in 1985.

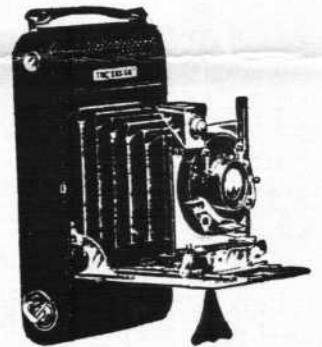

Louise married Guy Brinkerhuff (1895-1962). The couple had one daughter, Emma Lea Brinkerhuff Rodda, and two grandsons. Sad to say, this remarkable lady recently moved to Boise, Idaho to be with Emma Lea and her husband Sprague. We wish to congratulate Louise for the 94 years she spent in our fair city and wish her well in her new surroundings.

IN MEMORIAM

LINNIE BEACH

Linnie Ballinger Beach, 100, of Denver died May 17, 1992 in Glen Ayre Health Center, Lakewood, CO. She was born in Highland Lake, Colorado, near the town of Mead, Sept. 22, 1891 and was one of 11 children born to David and Mary Ballinger of the Ralston area, Arvada. She attended school in the Ralston vicinity and lived at home until her marriage to Charlie Beach June 12, 1912.

Linnie and Charlie moved to Jimtown (Jamestown) Colorado where Charlie was employed in the mines, and they lived there many years before moving back to Arvada. The Beaches had two children: a son Harold who was born in Boulder, and a daughter Frances born in Golden.

Long years of working in the mines proved fatal to Charlie, who succumbed to miner's consumption March 4, 1934 at the age of 42. For a time Linnie worked at the Arvada Cleaners, but eventually she moved into Denver where she worked for the Luby Box Factory at W. 28th Ave. and Perry St.

While living in Arvada, Linnie was very active in the Arvada Baptist Church located at Second and Church Streets (Yarrow St. and W. 57th Ave). She belonged to its quilting club, its women's groups, and helped with church dinners. After moving to Denver she joined Evangel Baptist Church in Wheat Ridge where again she was very involved in quilting and other groups. She also enjoyed her Pinochle Club which met weekly, travelling to various parts of the U.S., gardening and baby sitting her grandchildren.

Services for Linnie were May 21, 1992 in Evangel Baptist Church, with burial in Crown Hill Cemetery. Preceded in death by her husband and her son Harold, she is survived by her daughter, Frances Vorce of Lakewood, CO; one sister, Blanche Nelson of Glendale, CA; five grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

LOUISE CARON

Graveside services for Louise Caron, 68, were held at Fort Logan National Cemetery following her death July 10, 1992. She was born Sept. 19, 1923 in Johnstown, PA. On Jan. 19, 1950 she married James C. Caron in Washington, D.C. A homemaker, she was a bingo volunteer for the Colorado Button Box.

Louise is survived by her husband, James of Arvada; two daughters, Barbara Whittenberg of Westminster and Pamela E. Goodman of San Pedro, CA; a son Jamie of Golden, and two step-grandchildren.

HOWARD C. HOCKING

Born April 7, 1910 in Boulder, CO, Howard C. Hocking died July 5, 1992 in San Diego, CA at the age of 82. Services were held July 9 at Arvada United Methodist Church with interment in Boulder's Green Mountain Cemetery.

Howard attended the Boulder schools and the University of Colorado where he received both his Bachelor of Science and his Master's degrees. On June 1, 1936, he married Vera Fish in Atwood, CO. They had one daughter.

A long-time Arvada Senior High School teacher, Howard lived in Arvada until his retirement, when the Hockings moved to Broomfield. In addition to the Arvada United Methodist Church, he was a member of Arvada Masonic Lodge No. 141; Friendship Chapter No. 127, Order of Eastern Star; Order of White Shrine No. 12, and the Jefferson County Retired Teachers Association. He is survived by his wife Vera of Broomfield; his daughter Darlene Brueggeman of La Jolla, CA; and two grandchildren.

RUTH E. GOODLETT

Ruth E. Goodlett, 85, died June 21, 1992, at Mountain Vista Nursing Home in Wheat Ridge, CO. Burial services were June 24 at Crown Hill Cemetery. Ruth was born in Terra Haute, Indiana April 12, 1907 and attended school there until her family moved to Colorado Springs, where she graduated from high school.

She married John Homer Goodlett Sept. 10, 1924 in Arvada. To this union were born three sons: John H. Jr., David and Robert. Ruth was a homemaker but she also was very active teaching Sunday School at Arvada Presbyterian Church and volunteering for the PTA at Denver View School. All three of her boys attended Denver View and later graduated from Arvada High School.

During World War II while her sons were in the armed forces, Ruth worked at the Remington Small Arms Plant where she sorted shell casings. At this time she joined the War Mother's group. She took great happiness in having an unbroken membership spanning 68 years at the Arvada Presbyterian Church, which she had joined at the time of her marriage.

Preceded in death by her husband and her son John Homer Jr., she is survived by two sons, David of Aurora, CO and Robert of Redding, CA. and eight grandchildren.

LOUIS G. PULS

Louis G. Puls was born Jan. 30, 1897, in Lowell, New York, and died at 95 May 11, 1992 in Arvada. He received a one-year scholarship to Hamilton College, had a vision of what he wanted to do and the school that could best prepare him for his lifework.

The following year this poor farm boy worked his way across the country to California. The president of Stanford University was so impressed with Puls that he paid his $18.00 tuition, and this determined young man received a degree in Civil Engineering from Stanford in 1920. He married Helene Searcy on Christmas Eve, 1924. She was the daughter of Judge Searcy, circuit judge for Silverton and Durango.

Puls started his career in 1923 as construction inspector on the Wilson Dam project, built on the Tennessee River in Alabama. The following year Puls was a member of the American engineering team who helped the Russians build the hydroelectric Dnieperstroy Dam on the Dnieper River in Ukranian SSR. The dam was completed in 1932 and at the time was considered the longest dam in the world.

Puls returned to the U.S. and in 1933 was employed in the dam section of the Bureau of Reclamation. He lived in Denver until 1948, when he purchased a home at 7003 Ralston Road in Arvada, a two-story house with a bay window built in 1889. Logically, Puls became president of the Wadsworth Ditch Company.

In 1956 he was in charge of the design for the Glen Canyon, Flaming Gorge, Hell's Canyon, Hungry Horse and Monticello dams. He was the recipient of the Interior Department's Distinguished Service Award for outstanding engineering achievements. He retired from the Bureau of Reclamation in 1962, and for the next 20 years he served as a consultant on various boards in the U.S., India, Brazil, Thailand and Mexico.

During World War II Puls was commander of the 64th Navy Seabee Battalion in the South Pacific. He had been a Mason since 1922. Survivors include his son, Louis G. Jr. of Boulder; two daughters, Helen Grant and Anne Harris, both of Arvada; nine grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. His wife predeceased him in 1965.

IN MEMORIAM

NELLIE A. POPPERT

Nellie A. Poppert, 97, died July 11, 1992 at Bella Vista Towers in Denver. Memorial services were at Crown Hill Chapel July 20, with Dr. Stan Jewell of Arvada Presbyterian Church officiating. There was private interment of the cremains.

She was born Nellie Ada Heddendorp Nov. 24, 1884 in Stamford, Nebraska and attended District No. 64 schools near there. On April 30, 1913, she married a farmer, Walter D. Poppert, in Alma, Nebraska. The couple had two children, a son and a daughter.

In 1936 the Popperts left Nebraska and the farming life to live in the Denver area so their daughter Evelyn could attend Barnes School of Business. Mr. Poppert found work driving a team of horses at the construction site of Ralston Dam, and the family decided to make its home in Arvada. Mrs. Poppert returned to Nebraska alone where she took charge of selling the family home, packing up their possessions and moving everything to Arvada. Everything, that is, except her son Dale, whom she left in Nebraska with relatives so he could complete his high school education, which had just one semester to go.

For awhile Mrs. Poppert worked at the Remington Small Arms Plant sorting bullets. Her husband accepted employment there also as the nation prepared to defend itself in World War II. After 68 years of marriage, Mr. Poppert died Oct. 22, 1981.

Mrs. Poppert was a homemaker who enjoyed knitting, crocheting, quilting and sewing. She also was active in the Ladies Aid and Women's Missionary Society at her church, and was a member of the Arvada Garden Club. Survivors include her daughter, Evelyn P. Johnson of Arvada; her son, Dr. Dale L. Poppert of Denver; and three grandchildren.

EUSABIO BAYLON SEVILLA

Eusabio Sevilla, 87, was born in Maglaoi, Currimao, Northern Luzon, Phillipine Islands on Aug. 14, 1904, and died in Arvada June 29, 1992. He married Marciana Tabunan Acantilado Oct. 16, 1937 in the Phillipines.

The Phillipine couple wanted to better themselves, and when opportunity knocked they came to America in 1939 and to Arvada in 1946, and obtained their U.S. citizenship in the 1950's. Sevilla made socks in a textile company and designed window displays for the Denver Dry Goods Co. before he purchased the Arvada Cleaners on Grandview Ave. in 1959. The Sevillas were the first Orientals to own a business in Arvada, which they operated until 1991.

This couple were athletic as well as artistic. Eusabio was a pianist, played tennis and gave tennis lessons in Arvada. He continued to play both tennis and golf until he was 83. His wife also played tennis, was a violinist, and being a trained seamstress took care of alterations for the Arvada Cleaners.

In addition to the above activities, Sevilla was a co-founder and three-time president of the American Filipino Club of the Rockies, and was a member of the Arvada Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce and Central Business Association. He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mildred Acantilado Sevilla Vieaux, North Hollywood, CA; and Rose Marie Sevilla White, Evergreen, CO; a brother in Hawaii, four grandchildren and a great-grandson.

IN MEMORIAM

While attending Amherst College he became a short-term graduate in 1943 when he was drafted into the service. He took his basic training at Lowry Field and served in Italy with the Air Force Bomb Site Maintenance Crew during World War II. He married Betty Phillips in Denver June 14, 1945. The couple moved to Boston when Bob was admitted to Harvard Law School.

Following his graduation in 1947 the Sullivans returned to Denver for a few years and moved permanently to Arvada in 1951. ## LEST WE FORGET THOSE WHO SERVED IN WORLD WAR II

by Marcetta Lutz

Dale Branaman, one of Arvada's sons, was the Chief Torpedoman's Mate aboard the USS Conyngham when Pearl Harbor was attacked on Dec. 7, 1941. The destroyer and Branaman were inseparable throughout the war, with the exception of three months.

The ship was named for Captain Gustavus Conyngham (1747-1819) of Donnegal, Ireland, who made successful cruises in French and British waters during the Revolutionary War. His ship was one of four frigates out of the original 13 to survive that war, and G. Conyngham was one of five ship's captains who founded a sea tradition which was later implemented when the United States Navy was formed in 1794.

On the USS Conyngham Torpedoman Branaman was in a suicide mission, several enemy air attacks and bombardments, an enemy submarine action and nine additional battles for which he was awarded nine stars. The attack at Pearl Harbor was followed by the Battle of Midway, June 3, 1942; Guadalcanal on Nov. 2, 1942 and Feb. 7, 1943.

Branaman's thigh was hit with shrapnel in New Guinea Sept. 4, 1943, and he lost out on the next three battles. After undergoing surgery and recuperating at a hospital in Australia, he resumed his duties on the Conyngham during the battle at Saipan, June 25-July 9, 1944. He participated in the occupation of Guam, July 18-22, 1944; the landing at Leyte, Nov. 12, 1944; and the landing at Nasugbu, Jan. 31-Feb. 2, 1945. This coastal city was the west terminus of a road network leading north to Manila, where the destroyers Lough and Conyngham established a beachhead.

The next landing was at Corregidor Feb. 15 and 16, 1945. Here 30 Japanese suicide boats were sent to attack Allied destroyers and cruisers. The Conyngham sunk one on Feb. 16. Landing and bombardment took place at Cebu, March 24-20, 1945, and at Davao Harbor on Mindinao, April 19-May 15, 1945.

LEST WE FORGET....

The USS Conyngham's last encounter was at Balikpapan, Borneo. During this 16-day battle, the longest engagement for the destroyer, the Allies gained an important foothold into the rich oil supply and air fields which were a lifeline for the Japanese. While reducing the Japanese supplies, occupation would provide the Allies with oil and airfields in Southeast Asia.

The Japanese made an all-out effort to defend this port. They dug trenches parallel to beaches with the intent of filling them with oil which would be ignited at the first sign of attack. The beaches were heavily mined and the natives supplied additional underwater obstacles. Even after the channel was cleared, five miles of shallow beaches would not permit fire-support ships, and the nearest airfield was 400 miles away.

During the removal of mines from the beaches, Allied cruisers and destroyers were fired upon by enemy coastal batteries and were attacked by Japanese planes. Destroyer USS Conyngham remained after the other ships left to continue fire-support and bombardment liaison duties. Her departure concluded USN Oboe II operation. (Tarakan, a heart-shaped island off the east coast of Dutch Borneo, also was rich in oil and airfields. This was known as Oboe I.)

This was the last of 56 operations for the Seventh Amphibious Force. On Aug. 14, 1945, the Japanese accepted the Potsdam Declaration and agreed to surrender. At this time the USS Conyngham was in Subic Bay and Dale Branaman was at Cavite. Both were taking a long-deserved rest after six years and one month of active duty in the Pacific Front.

The USS Conyngham was involved in Operation Crossroads in 1946. This was a series of tests to determine whether ships could withstand nuclear explosions. The testing site was located at Bikini Atoll in the Marshall Islands, some 2,000 miles south of Hawaii. The 1,500 ton Conyngham survived the nuclear attack. The contaminated destroyer was thoroughly washed out with sand and steamed back to Pt. Loma, CA. It was the 11th radioactive ship to be sunk, and finally was laid to rest in the Pacific Ocean off the west coast of Mexico, 90 miles southwest of Pt. Loma. This action took place sometime between 1948 and 1951.

Unlike his "Death Ship", Dale Branaman was given an honorable discharge and received the following medals and awards for his strenuous years in the U.S. Navy: Purple Heart, American Defense Star, American Area Asiatic Pacific Stars (5), Philippine Liberation Stars (2), World War II Victory Medal, China Service Ribbon and the Good Conduct Medal. Dale re-enlisted in the U.S. Navy and served 20 years on active duty and 10 years in the USN Reserves. He retired April 1, 1969.

Arvada claimed Dale Branaman long before the U.S. Navy recruited him. This Arvada native was born on his grandmother Clara Wheldon Sain's farm on May 26, 1919. The farm was located on the south side of W. 58th Ave. near Kipling St. Dale attended the Arvada schools and graduated from Arvada High School with the class of 1937.

He married Mary Adams of Durango on Feb. 1, 1946, who died Dec. 23, 1985. The couple had two children: a son, James Charles Branaman, who lives in Portland, Oregon; and a daughter, Marian Yvonne Gordon of Independence, Oregon. Dale currently resides in Brookings, Oregon, but his early years in Arvada haunt him still. He will attend his 55th high school reunion and the Old Timers Picnic this month. Welcome home, Dale Branaman!
